Ambiguity of authority:

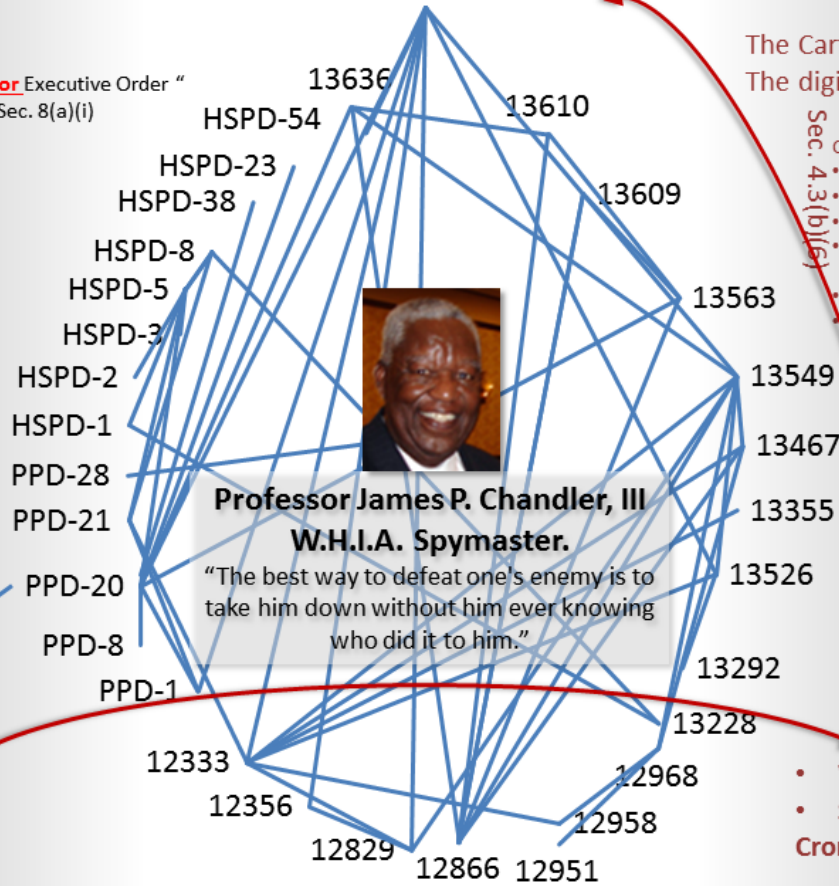

"authority granted by law or Executive Order "
Read: the law, or Obama. Sec. 8(a)(i)

E.O. 13961 includes:

- 128 nested orders
- 22 nested directives

E.O. 13961 is an unintelligible hairball. The ambiguity guarantees that successive readers are forced to return to its author, James P. Chandler, the spy master himself, for interpretation.

• Fixed problem with 'Select any number' from the menu bar 1.6.11 v1.6.11 brings several minor update releases to Adobe Premiere Pro CC 2017 v11.1.2.22, including:.. • Added support for video frames per second and frame rate • Added a new menu option to select from various video modes.

• Buy the Premiere Pro CC 2017 beta now from the Adobe Appstore! • A reminder that buying through the Appstore does not upgrade content in any way, it just applies its price reduction so that you have new content ready to use even while it's locked.. • Added support for the first time for video resolutions of 480p/60fps • Added new controls, as well a new toolbar icon to customize the settings.. The other keys are generated as part of the system account system, and are keyed with the user account name, the account name, the account password, and a unique User key (also used for the "System" key). To get a system account name, use the "System" key. To get a user ID, use the "User" key.. • You can purchase Premiere Pro CC 2017 through the Adobe Downloads site! 1.6.10 v1.6.10 brings five minor updates to Premiere Pro_extracted_2016-06-12.zip 2.1K.. The User key contains an array of all user IDs, for which Adobe generates an expiration date that is added to each user account. When a user's expiration date expires, the user's key is removed from the User key, as do all existing user accounts that have unused account names (that means their keys have not been assigned to them). If you want to create a new account, your account name is created with that information, and then your Key, along with any User key, is assigned to the new account. When you create a new user account, Adobe adds a key for the new account to the top of the User key (and removes the key from the previous user) in the same way that it would add a user ID to an already existing account. If you have additional User keys, you add the Key to the system, because you need a User key to create that user object.
